

SKI PORTILLO

INFORMATION UPDATE, MONDAY JULY 20, 2026.

Dear Friends of Portillo,

We are reaching out to provide you with an update on the storm currently developing in Portillo. As of today (July 20), more than 4.5 meters of snow has fallen, and this figure is expected to continue rising in the coming days. As a result, access to Portillo remains closed for safety reasons.

The duration and intensity of this storm are highly unusual and are constantly changing, so it is difficult to know when we will have a window of good weather that will allow us to resume ground or air access to the ski resort. In any case, we are constantly monitoring the forecasts, and if anything changes, we will provide a timely update through our official channels.

We appreciate your understanding.
